

Crow Girl
Written By Bodil Bredsdorff

Book Report by Koshi
June 2009

Crow Girl is a story about a girl who lives alone with her grandmother and then her grandmother dies. She has to bury her right next to her grandfather. Crow Girl then goes on a journey to find a new life. She meets many different people - some of whom are nice and some are not. Some of the people she meets become like her family. She invites them to move back to Crow Cove where she lived with her grandmother. She finally finds happiness after so much sadness.

My favourite character was Doup. He was funny and silly. My least favourite character was the woman who was so mean to Crow Girl and stole her shawl. My mother's favourite character was Rossan. He was incredibly kind and provided what Crow Girl and her new family needed to start fresh again.

I would give this book 10 crows out of 10 crows. This book was adventurous and funny. It is helpful to read stories where the character was able to live through so much despair and yet find happiness again. I was so happy that she was given a proper name at the end.

