Discussion with June Hutton about Underground

June Hutton was born and raised in East Vancouver. She travelled to the north to ride a two-man boat down the Teslin and Yukon rivers as research for her debut novel Underground. Currently she resides in Vancouver and is a member of the SPiN writing group.

Underground is the story of one man's epic journey to find a place to belong where he can take root and thrive. This journey spans twenty years, two wars and thousands of miles. Al Fraser's struggle will pull you from your world and leave you in his, where you will stay long after you finish the last page.

In the words of author John Higgins:

"June Hutton has found poetry in the underground worlds of wartime trenches, Chinatown tunnels, depression-era work camps, and the bomb craters of the Spanish Civil War. In this novel, Al Fraser's remarkable story has been given voice by a wise and generous writer."
